

Ed Abroad works for your budget!

Taking classes, living, and traveling abroad - sounds expensive, right? It doesn't have to be! It's possible to go abroad on a budget. Here are some key strategies to make it happen:

1

Start with an affordable program: CU Boulder Education Abroad has a lot of programs, and plenty of these options are comparable to the cost of a semester at CU Boulder. Start with our suggested list of Best Semester Deals, and then use our Program Search to find even more programs that will work for your budget.

2

Use financial aid: Financial aid automatically applies to approved Education Abroad semester programs! Any loans, grants, or scholarships that you receive from the federal government, the state of Colorado, or from CU will automatically apply to your Education Abroad costs the same as it would for your tuition here. If you are a Pell Recipient, some programs even match Pell Grants. Financial aid can be a huge help in supporting an ed abroad experience, just as they are in Boulder!

3

Apply for scholarships: There are many scholarship opportunities for Education Abroad students. The CU Education Abroad office offers the need-based Buffs Abroad Scholarship, and there are many other lots of other scholarships too, including scholarships for certain majors, certain regions of study, merit-based, need-based, and more!

Want to learn about more studying abroad within your budget? Connect with Education Abroad to get started!

Best Semester Deals

Africa & the Middle East

- ISA Morocco
- Egypt: EAE American University in Cairo

Asia

- TEAN Thailand
- EAE Japan: Kansai Gaidai University

Australia / New Zealand

- Australia: EAE Wollongong
- New Zealand: EAE Otago

Europe

- Sweden: EAE Uppsala
- ISA Spain Granada
- England: EAE Lancaster
- ISA Czech Republic Prague
- Germany: EAE Regensburg

Latin America

- ISA Colombia
- ISA Costa Rica

United States

- CU in D.C.