Meet the Director

Alison Castel is a professor in Peace and Conflict Studies and International Affairs at CU. She has been designing courses and traveling with college-aged and post-graduate students since September 2000. In that time, she has taken students to Ecuador, Bolivia, Peru, Venezuela, Guatemala, Nicaragua, Colombia, Kenya, Rwanda, China, India, Indonesia, and Israel/Palestine.
Belfast & Derry/Londonderry

- Urban centers
- Belfast – one of most vibrant cities in UK
- Post-conflict society
- Derry/Londonderry – on the River Foyle
Academics

Gain an inside perspective on the history of conflict and peacebuilding by meeting with academics, NGOs, community members, former combatants, peacebuilders, legislators, and hear voices and stories less often heard. Students will maintain detailed field notes, engage in reflection, and choose a particular topic of interest to analyze for a research paper.
